The state of being “in between” is often not a comfortable one. Although I am a short adult, I clearly remember the frustration of not being ‘grown up’ enough to see over the counter at the bank, and being impatient until I finally was. That feeling of being on the way towards something, but not being able to identify the exact end point of that journey, is where we are this autumn at TBH. As we celebrate The Festival of Sukkot (it is the only holiday referred to simply as אגרה we remind ourselves of our fragility. Agriculture is an act of faith: we sow seeds in the belief that the ground was created with what they need in order to thrive, grow, give fruit and nourish us. In Israel, the act of faith is extreme, at least in Biblical times, as it rained only for six months a year at best. Modern Israel developed drip irrigation, so even with drought conditions it is possible to farm. Most Israelis have visited a working farm, as the roughly 300 kibbutzim left in Israel are popular getaways. Here in CT, we CAN visit farms, and some of us go to farmers markets or join a CSA to get high quality local vegetables, but we’re not dependent on agriculture. Or are we?

I fear that the original use of the small huts (sukkot), i.e. to enable the grain to be harvested even by moon light, has been forgotten. It’s fun to cut branches and string up colorful gourds in the Sukkah, and the Etrog has a wonderful scent no matter where or when you smell it. But our existential dependence on God, who provided a world that allows us to grow what we need to sustain ourselves – that has faded from the meaning of this holiday. In the Mishnah, the law is clear: only a Sukkah which is built specifically for the holiday fulfills the commandment. A free-standing gazebo doesn’t, nor does a pergola; even the most beautiful screened-in porch, none of these meets the requirement. It has to come into being, as it were, no earlier than the end of Yom Kippur. In Israel, the tradition is to join together the first section of your Sukkah as soon as Yom Kippur ends and the shofar is blown, even before eating! The intensity of internal concentration on our spiritual lives that we share on Yom Kippur is replaced by intense physical activity in building a temporary shelter for Sukkot. We move from introspection and reconciliation to almost unbridled celebration, culminating with an outright party on Simchat Torah!

As I write this, it really does sound a little unbalanced. But we need a remedy to the unsustainable atmosphere of Yom Kippur, we need to remind ourselves that the life of the spirit has value but the needs of the day to day must be recognized. This in-between time of Sukkot is the first opportunity in 5784 for us to share our gratefulness for what we can harvest. I suggest we use this time to not only count our blessings as individuals, but also to draw strength from the blessings this community has. We have a warm and welcoming house of worship not only because of the clergy who lead worship, but foundationally because of the members who welcome any who come to join. We have children who Enjoy their Jewish education and comport themselves knowledgeably on the bima, even continuing on as madrichim, role models for the younger children. We have educational and social opportunities that bring us together, and we are exploring ways to expand these. So this Sukkot holiday, even if it’s gray and wet, take a moment and look at what fertile ground TBH is, and how all of us, together, can bring in the bountiful harvest.

-Rabbi Leah Benamy

THE PRESIDENT'S CORNER

TBH Family,

I hope everyone enjoyed the High Holy Days as much as I did, and it was great to connect with so many of you in person. I wanted to personally thank Rabbi Benamy and Cantor Benamy for their hard work in preparing for the holidays so we all could have meaningful worship during these holiest days of the year. I would also like to thank all the volunteers who helped prepare and execute all that is needed so we can come and be present for the holidays. From the Religious School to RPC, to the Men's Club, and countless other groups and individuals behind the scenes who make it all happen, please accept my sincerest gratitude.

This time of year is always my favorite. From the leaves changing and the cooler weather (usually), to Sukkot and Simchat Torah, I just love the transition. It echoes a lot of transitions going on here at TBH. From the Religious School being back in full swing, and committees and clubs meeting regularly, it is an exciting time to be at TBH.

Lastly, I wanted to remind you that if you have not filled out your High Holy Days pledge cards, please do so and return them to Sam in the office. Last week we discovered some leaks in the building and unfortunately now have to re-seal the entire roof at TBH. This was not in our already tight budget for this year. We need your financial help to keep TBH being the place where we all can enjoy it, but that cannot happen without you, so please think again about contributing to TBH if you can.

I hope you get to go out and enjoy this wonderful time of year, and if you have any questions, please feel free to reach out to myself or any member of the Board.

L'shalom,

Jeff Levin

All of these cities have Reform synagogues, and all are recipients of the URJ Ner Tamid award. Mindy and I visited each synagogue and met the people. They have made such wonderful communities. If you find yourself in one of these cities, you have a home away from home.

The Treasurer's Corner

TBH Family,

It's important for everyone to stay informed about TBH's financial situation. We are highly reliant on your support, donations, and volunteering to enable us to offer all the great services we have available to our members. During the Holidays, we had to replace our large commercial refrigerator and found a leak in the sanctuary ceiling, which we need to fix before it causes additional damage. In addition, our HVAC system will need to be replaced soon and we are considering investing in solar panels for long-term energy independence. These are all expensive items that are not budgeted for, and we could really benefit from financial help from our TBH family.

Our dues and donations to the General Fund are key contributors to our bottom line. If you have not made a High Holy Days donation yet, we ask that you please consider doing so. If you have already donated and have the means to help us further, that would be amazing. Nothing is too small - everyone's donations can add up!

Secondly, it is important you know that TBH has always welcomed everyone as members, regardless of their financial situation. If you need financial assistance and have not reached out to the Abatement Committee, we ask that you do. This enables us to forecast our finances more accurately for the year. If you already have an abatement but haven't revised your level of support in a while, perhaps you could contribute a little more this year? Keeping the TBH family together is a priority. If supporting us financially is a challenge, please consider other ways to support the community, such as volunteering. Everyone coming together will keep TBH on track for a long and successful future. Together, we can!

SEEKING A USED REFRIGERATOR, FOOD, TOILETRIES & MORE

TBH members continue to collect/donate food, toiletries, household items and clothing for the South Park Inn in Hartford and the North End's Walk in the Life Church of God. Our newest effort: helping a group of over 50 local Muslim women collect household items to assist Syrian refugees coming to Connecticut. If you have useful housewares or furniture that could help a family start a new life here, do NOT bring to Temple but tell Laura Soll-Broxterman and she will notify that group. If they want your items, they will contact you directly to arrange for pick-up. We seek a volunteer to be TBH's phone point person in this effort.

NEEDED NOW: A Used Refrigerator: Archbishop Dexter Burke's Walk in the Light Church refrigerator is beyond repair and needed to chill food and baby formula for the congregation and neighbors. Have one you don't use or are buying a new one? Call Archbishop Burke at 860-910-3545 - he can come pick it up.

This year's event is on Friday, October 27th and Saturday, October 28th at Floyd Little Athletic Center in New Haven (also needs help on set-up day October 26th). Volunteers are needed to help with patient registration, patient escorts, food service, and more. Breakfast, lunch, snacks, and an event T-shirt are provided. You must sign up to volunteer at <https://cfdo.org/ct-mom/volunteers> where there is full event information.

RELIGIOUS SCHOOL UPDATE

The temple is once again buzzing with activity on Sunday mornings! Students are learning and praying together, and having a good time doing it! Subjects this year include Bible Studies, Hebrew Workshop, and Judaic Studies. An important part of our religious school is building strong bonds, so students take part in a community-building activity together each Sunday. Last week, they worked together to prepare the sanctuary for Yom Kippur, and then played a spirited game of “Would You Rather?” in the Chapel!

We would like to give a special thank you to our Hebrew School students, as well as their parents and our teachers, for decorating our Sukkah! We hope that everyone in the community stops by to see our handiwork! The Religious School hosted an evening of the “Sukkah Hop” in our TBH Sukkah, as did several members of our congregation at their own homes. We hope you all were able to come and make the Sukkot blessings with them.

TORAH PORTIONS

Vezot ha'Bracha Deuteronomy 33:1–34:12 Vezot ha'Bracha, which means "and this is the blessing." These are the first words of Deuteronomy 33:1. This Torah portion is ordinarily read on the day of Simchat Torah ("Rejoicing of the Torah") in conjunction with the beginning of the book of Genesis to mark the conclusion of one year's Torah cycle and the beginning of the next. The portion contains Moses' final blessings over the twelve tribes, his ascent up Mount Nebo to overlook the land of Canaan, and his death and burial.

Parshat Bereishit Genesis 4:23-5:24 Bereishit ("In the Beginning"), the first parashah in the annual Torah reading cycle, begins with God's creation of the world. The first people, Adam and Eve, eat from the Tree of Knowledge and are banished from the Garden of Eden. Their elder son, Cain, kills their younger son, Abel, and Cain is destined to a life of wandering.

Parashat Noach Genesis 6:9-11:32 Noach ("Noah") begins as God decides to destroy mankind with a flood. At God's command, the righteous Noah builds an ark, where Noah, his family, and select animals survive the flood. Noah's children bear children, and several generations develop. God confounds the speech of people building the Tower of Babel.

Parashat Lech-Lecha Genesis 12:1-17:27 Lech Lecha ("Go Forth") recounts Abraham's (here known as Abram) first encounter with God, his journey to Canaan, the birth of his son Ishmael, the covenant between him, his descendants, and God, and God's commandment to circumcise the males of his household.
